On my machine the water was stuck in the drum. I drained the water and cleaned the filter but the same thing happened again. Machine model number was on the back of the machine. I just matched my model number in the list and ordered the pump Bosch Maxx 6. Lots of videos on line of how to change the pump. I just pulled the top off the machine Thorx screws and then wedged the drum with some folded cardboard. Then pushed the machine on its side. the pump is at the bottom by the drain hole. <http://charletdesign.com/uploads/741gx-m-manual.xml>

I found it easier to just pull out the whole assembly out and replace the lot. there are just 2 wire spring clips holding the hoses on pair of pliers. unplug and replug the pump lead and that was it dont forget to pull out the cardboard!! . This was my first pump swap and was easy peasy. the machine is a bit heavy so 2 people might be easier to handle it. Hold times are long.
